War!

War! Into all our plans and activities this year has extended the second world war. Our brothers and fathers are in the armed services, and are being joined by our sisters and aunts. Our parents are working long shifts in Elgin's defense plants. More are working part or full time in factories and stores, doing our share to achieve a final victory over the Axis forces.

War! We have talked victory, we have made sacrifices, we have carried scrap, we have bought bonds. And most important of all, we are discussing the post-war world, preparing for the day when we will assume our duties as citizens of a democracy.

Theme

What the students of Elgin High School have done during this school year of 1942-43 is pictured in this book. It is a record of scrap drives and Career days, of senior parties and basketball games. It is the story of some sixteen hundred students, sharing experiences of all kinds as they prepare for the future.

FRED B. DIXON

We Dedicate

this book to Fred B. Dixon, our principal, whose coming to Elgin High School last fall was the most important event of the year. He has proven to be a real friend, ready at all times for serious counsel or friendly conversation and guidance. His fine leadership of the high school is recognized by students, faculty, and community. Above he is seen "in action" with Dr. Clifford Erickson of Northwestern University, one of several excellent speakers he has helped bring to us this year.

W. O. BECKNER

We acknowledge

a debt to W. O. Beckner, who is retiring on pension from active service with Elgin High School this spring. His years of varied experience gave him a wisdom and generosity which made him one of our most valuable school citizens. His eagerness to help young people is well illustrated in his organizing the Map Reading club this year, to help prepare boys for work in the armed services. Our debt is one of gratitude for years of such unselfish service.

In Memory

MISS HELEN REVETT

Her devotion to duty was her first thought always. Coupled with this, or the reverse side of duty, was her love for humanity which gave her moral strength to keep working long after her physical strength was gone.

Every child in the public schools was her trust. Never did she feel that her day's work was done until every call for every sick child in town was answered. She worked with every charitable organization, every hospital and every doctor to get medical aid for all children who needed such care. It was often discouraging work but she kept on because she believed in the joy and happiness that goes with good health.

Her life was a success for she brought new courage and faith to hundreds of young people and their parents.

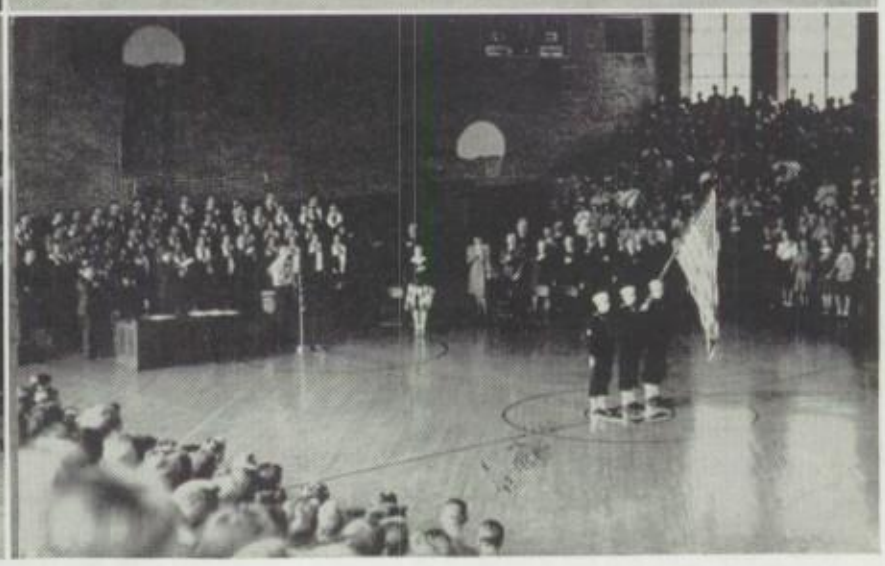
School Activities

Activities and War

More important than ever before were our activities this year. Nearly all were designed to actively aid the war effort. All aided our morale problem as we faced day after day of war news. New clubs such as the Slide Rule and the Aero groups have come into being to meet needs brought on with the war. Our older clubs have functioned as smoothly as possible, their activities often limited by the demands of the emergency. One group, the Rifle club, strangely enough, has passed into oblivion because there was no ammunition to be passed for practice.

School life has its serious and its lighter sides. Our club meetings have helped us enjoy both more.

W.G.N. Program



Citizens of Tomorrow

Under the direction of Phillip Maxwell, genial master of ceremonies, "The Citizens of Tomorrow" came to Elgin High School this year. After a practice session in which students surprised even themselves by getting up and sitting down noiselessly, a final recording was made. The following Sunday all Elgin listened to the result as broadcast over radio station WGN.

Mr. Maxwell and Principal Dixon briefly reviewed the history and life of the high school. Students cheered themselves hoarse and applauded loudly for the comedians, Jimmy and Jerry, and groaned or cheered as the quiz contest brought defeat or glory to six students. The A Cappella choir sang two numbers which brought high praise from the radio officials present and radio listeners. Carolyn Bennorth was named Elgin High School's honor citizen.

The future destiny of America depends upon its "Citizens of Tomorrow," we high school students, for we will play a major part in deciding our country's policies in the hectic years ahead. The Chicago Tribune reemphasized that fact for all of Elgin as it visited our school.

Maroon

Yearbooks are hard work, nice to look at and "ah" over but very hard to plan and complete. Write-ups, make-up, mountings, engravings, headlines—these with a generous portion of elbow grease, all mixed well and brought to a boil at deadline time, resulted in the 1943 Maroon.

Betty Bickler and Barbara Schaaf worked as co-editors. Betty Cochrane was underclassmen editor, and Edgar Backus sports editor. Bernard Wahl and Dick Leitner worked together on photography. Gordon Coxe produced the sketches which have enlivened the pages.

Carl Swanson, Marjorie Sandberg, Carol Rhoades, Kathryn Seyller, Shirley Torling, Richard Damisch, Ruby Carlson, Mary Lund, Margaret Danielek, Grace Szosz, Shirley Hofflander, Blanche Saxe, Joan Silliman and Carliss Carlson were editorial assistants.

Under direction of Bill Richardson, the business management was taken care of by Mr. Morrill's salesmanship class, which successfully sold over one hundred patrons for the book.

James E. Baxter was editorial and business adviser.

Mirror

Operating successfully on a closely figured budget and striving to publish interesting weekly newspapers has been the difficult task faced by the Mirror staff this year.

The total number of issues was cut to twenty-four from last year's thirty when Student Activity receipts fell below what had been expected. Advertising receipts dropped slightly. Engravings were cut by government order.

Aided by special feature material and spiced by gossip, the Mirror struggled on under the direction of Patt Dreyer and Jim Howard, co-editors. Charlotte Churchill edited the second page during the entire year.

Helen Pata became third page editor the second semester, succeeding Eileen Klinger. Charles Jacobs succeeded Robert Bailey, who became a sports writer for the Elgin Courier-News.

Shirley Lawrence and Edgar Backus enlivened the general atmosphere with their columns of tid-bits and juicy gossip. Staff writers were Walter Grisham, Jack Pauly, Len Wahl, Marilyn Moore, and Gene Thompson. Mitchell Weisner and Reginia Fitzsimmons were reporters.

Walter Grisham became business manager after Ray Kenyon quit at semester time. Bill Roberts worked as circulation manager the entire year.

Miss Pratt Confers with Mr. Renner and Dave Kilburn

Do you know where Nigeria is?

Can you pull a rabbit out of your hat?

Would you like to take ping pong lessons from experts?

Answers to these intriguing questions and many others have been solved at the lyceum programs sponsored by the council.

The Student Council for the past year has again, as many times before, led our school in successful activities. This year we have again a near 100% subscription for the Student Activity Ticket sponsored jointly by the Student Council and the Mirror.

During the Curtis Drive in October, E. H. S. students proved their ability as junior salesmen under the leadership of the council.

Forensics

You've heard of people who talk a lot and still don't say much or get anywhere. But the Elgin High School debaters did.

They tied for second place in the state tournament and the Big Eight Conference and won the Conference championship for original speech.

In the Augustana College Speech Tournament they won fifth place out of twenty-four schools entered.

To become a good debater one must have a quick thinking mind and must have the ability to reason. These are two important things a debater must possess.

Projection

There was recently a construction project under way in room 222. If you have dropped in there lately, you certainly must have noticed the beautiful new booth which the Projection Club has built to house their films and equipment.

The club is not big, in fact the whole membership consists of eight boys, but it certainly gets around. Some of its projects this year were: setting up and controlling the sound system for assembly programs, showing movies to grade schools, helping make it possible for the student body to hear the Champaign Basketball Tournaments in the gym, and last but not least playing records for all-school dances.

Slide Rule

"Hey, that's no fair. Wahl can do these problems in half the time with his slide rule."

"Well, if you weren't so lazy you could learn how to use one of these things too."

Yes, every Tuesday noon in room 339 Miss Mary Peters, Miss Hortense Wilson, and about fifteen seekers of knowledge delve into the mysteries of the slide rule, while chewing their peanut butter sandwiches.

The club was organized last semester at the request of several interested students. Knowledge of the slide rule can be very helpful and is required in many technical jobs.

Slide Rulers know this. They will be ready.

Aero Club

All model airplane builders and students interested in aviation have had a chance to use their skill and gain more knowledge of flying in the Aero club. Their sponsor is Newell Vonckx, teacher of aeronautics. Methods of building and flying models have been discussed at meetings. Records of national flying contests have been studied closely. Climax of the year came at the model plane contest January 23 in which solid scales, flying cabin models and stick models were shown.

Map Reading

The purpose of this club is to familiarize students with navigation over land, sea, and in the air. The students are being taught how to read maps accurately, identify the topography of the land and its elevation at any point.

At the present time the club has fourteen active members which meet every Monday noon. They are now plotting aerial courses allowing for magnetic declination and drift. Many are determining distances between two points on the arc of a great width. Sectional and regional charts mercatur and cinic projections are the type of maps that are being studied. The members are now capable of determining the exact latitude and longitude of any particular position or building. Mr. Beckner is the adviser.

F.F.A.

The Future Farmers of America serve today as much as they will tomorrow. During the past year, many things have been done by the F. F. A. to help the war effort.

Among their many participating activities were: field trips to help better their knowledge; test soil and milk for the individuals of the community; raise animals to help the food shortage.

Every year, ribbons have been won by the participating members who entered the Grain and Poultry show.

The club adviser is Harry Raplus.

Their motto is: Learning to do
Doing to learn
Earning to live
Living to serve.

Izaak Walton

There's nothing "fishy" about what this club is doing, but they are doing a very good job of keeping our streams well supplied with fish.

They hardly ever "shoot the bull," because it is their policy to preserve animals and wildlife.

They do their level best to keep plant life preserved and there isn't a bit of "corn" in the things they are doing in the conservation program.

Know what club this is?

You guessed it. It's the Izaak Walton Club headed by Mr. Adams.

The Band

Director Allen Metcalf

Obligingly freezing at football games, peering through and over the balcony at basketball games, and parading miles in black shoes and stiff uniforms, we have kept our public happy this year. After all, of course, what's a football game or a parade without a band?

After Director U. K. Reese left us last fall for a captain's commission in the United States Army, the direction of our organization was capably handled by Allen Metcalf.

Under Mr. Metcalf's direction we took part in several school and civic ceremonies, one of them being the awarding of the Army-Navy "E" for excellence to the Illinois Tool company. A check for $150 was the reward we gained for this concert.

Orchestra

Would Beethoven recognize his "First Symphony" as played by the E. H. S. Orchestra? Maybe not, but any change from the original only makes it sound better in the hands of OUR orchestra.

Aspiring and perspiring musicians under the direction of Miss Marian Laffey have blended their instruments together to make our Christmas vesper, Martha Concert and assemblies a huge success. In addition they went to Chicago to hear the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and presented a concert at the Elgin State Hospital.

The orchestra and vocal groups combined in presenting a Spring Festival which climaxed the year's activities.

Scrap Drive

Get in the Scrap!

Tires, stoves, pans, pots, cars, tractors, trucks, irons, safes, coaster wagons, scooters, beds, bicycles—all these and hundreds of other junky items were hauled, lugged, dragged to Elgin's huge scrap pile. Little children from the grades hauled wagon loads of iron, old people cleaned out their basements, and we high school students rode through the town, gloriously and precariously perched on loaded trucks as we piled the junk higher and higher.

To Beat the Jap!

"E. H. S. Gets in the Scrap!"

Elgin High School
170.5 tons

Elgin Schools Total
422 tons

This was the best tonnage for any city-wide school system in downstate Illinois.

Once upon a time on a cool October day in the year 1942, a baby thermometer was born. Because of the task ahead of it in the war effort they named it Victory.

Because the baby thermometer thrived on only scrap food, the E. H. S. students went out to help the victory thermometer by collecting scrap. As a consequence, the baby Victory grew, and grew, bigger every day.

The two student co-managers and the student chairman committee heads laid the plans for Baby Victory's life, and the students by feeding her scrap made the plans work.

Baby's diet after being weighed and recorded, was put in the city park until it could be fed her, but alas, the food was too much—Baby Victory was overfed and the thermometer died after a short life of about a week and a half.

Yes, Baby Thermometer Victory died, but her life will live on. It will not stop! Not until this scrap is over, and the husbands and wives; the brothers and sisters come marching home will she really have died.

The Victory Corps

"Remember Pearl Harbor and the Alamo!"

"Five Jeeps or Bust!"

"Buy, Buy Bonds or Bye, Bye Liberty!"

These are only a few of the slogans that typify the E. H. S. Victory Corps and their determination to help assure that final day of triumph.

Members are interested in all activities that will help the war effort, but one of their main jobs this year was the all-school Bond Drive. The slogan that started this drive, "Dig, Dig Deep, You Have Victory in Your Pocket," spurred students on to greater efforts that put over this drive and brought Victory closer.

"Remember Pearl Harbor and the Alamo?"

"Five Jeeps or Bust?"

"Buy, Buy Bonds or Bye, Bye Liberty?"

Before, these slogans may have been of a questionable nature to E. H. S. students, but after working and accomplishing their part in assuring victory they remain no longer a question but slogans that spell Victory.

Me-Me-Me, Do Re Me Fa So La Te Do, La-La-La, rings out vibrant and clear down the halls of E. H. S. disturbing the peace and quiet of a typical noon hour. Yes, it is one of our vocal groups at one of their regular rehearsals. All during the noon hour you can hear these ambitious singers exercising their vocal cords.

Between crescendo and decrescendo, these folk remind themselves that Lily Pons and Nelson Eddy went through this too before they became opera stars.

Step by step up the ladder of musical organizations, from Freshman Chorus to A Cappella, these singers advance quickly and surely. In time, one of them might become the future Lily Pons or Nelson Eddy of Opera.

A Cappella

"'Tis the Holy Hour of Evening - - " Yes, we're the A Cappella Choir singing our marching theme. We have sung for school concerts, the Christmas pageant, for clubs, and we have even sung on WGN. Another "wonder production" under the direction of Miss Marge Biersach was "So Wonderful in White, a timely play featuring the struggles involved in becoming a nurse.

That's not all the "Players" accomplished this year. They found time to take a few journeys to Chicago to see some "Big Town" stage plays. In a few years or so, we may have the opportunity to see some E. H. S. Player members as stars of these plays.

Girls' Club

Something new has been added to the harmonious life of Elgin High! Yes, you guessed right, that something new is the Girls' Club and if you belong to the fairer sex you are automatically a member.

Life is just a melody and so is the Girls' Club. To prove this we will take you up their scale of activities. With the strike of do, the various dances the Girls' Club has sponsored comes forth, for there is always dough in more ways than one where dances are concerned.

The assemblies and panels they sponsored come up next with the sound of re for everyone lets out a ray for these. Me suggests the get-togethers in the library for the freshmen and sophomores sponsored by the juniors and seniors for these are definitely for me. Fa-r from last is the opening of 139 for noon gab-fests. We said it was far from last so we add the style introductions and the courtesy campaigns to our list. La la la rings out across the halls when pupils look at the various exhibits in the halls, some funny, some serious. Te—what does that suggest—why of course, the Mother's-Daughter Tea which was such a great success.

The scale is ended, the melody finished, but not so the Girls' Club for it will live on year after year.

Senior Tri-Y

Hi-Y

Eight chapters of the Hi-Y organization are to be found in Elgin High School. Senior chapters are the West and the Hauter groups, both of which are now disbanding after four years of active work as council members.

Charles Peterson, president of the Hauter chapter, is president of the Hi-Y council, which governs the work of all the chapters. The meeting plan followed this year brought counselors and leaders together during the first week of the month, individual chapters in home meetings the second and fourth weeks, and the entire Hi-Y in a group meeting the third week.

National theme for Hi-Y is "To create, maintain and extend throughout the school and community high Christian standards of living."

Tri-Y

"Did you see the darling new boy at school?" "She's got a date with Johnny and I don't know what to do." "Haven't you seen Pam's new sweater?" "Doesn't he look won-der-ful in a football suit?" "Doesn't she . . . etc." All this and more, too, might be heard outside the door at one of the Tri-Y's annual teas. As you might well guess, the Tri-Y is a group of high school girls. These girls hold suppers, dances, luncheons, teas, sleigh rides, conferences, giving baskets, Red Cross work, and donating money to needy organizations. Affiliated with the Y.W.C.A., these girls try to promote mutual feelings between girls of high school age.

"Seven Keys To Baldpate"

Seven Keys to Baldpate is one of the most thrilling plays of recent times, written by the late, ingenious and resourceful George M. Cohan.

A writer goes to a mountain inn for a plot and what with all the exciting and thrilling things that happen to him, he gets more than he bargained for.

This mysterious, melodramatic farce was staged by the senior class on December third and fourth, 1942.

"To stimulate interest in reading good books" might well be the motto of the Junior and Senior Literature clubs this year, as all their activities centered around this theme.

Book week, current book reviews, student talent programs and a marionette show were only a few of their activities. In addition, they journeyed to Chicago to see the stage play "Junior Miss."

Main project of the year was their new publication "Spring Reigns," offered to the student body for the first time. The purpose is to give students an opportunity to show their talent for creative writing.

The aim of the clubs was accomplished as members became better acquainted with well known authors of the literary world and spent several pleasant hours reading their books.

Language Club

In far flung battle posts, in far distant lands, many Americans are finding how essential it is to be able to speak in some other language than Yankee slang or with a soft southern drawl.

Modern transportation and communication enables one to visit or talk to Europeans within a very short time. In order to do this, a knowledge of the language and customs of the country is required.

American schools, realizing this, have included foreign languages as a part of the regular school program. In order to apply what was learned in the classroom to everyday use, language clubs were organized. They aid the students to better understand the language and know the country they are studying.

French, German and Latin Clubs are now a part of our club program.

In 1943, when many Americans are making history in foreign countries, in distant corners of the world, we realize anew the part our language clubs play in a Modern World.

Students of Elgin High School:

In answer to your inquiry of the activities of the Commercial Club for the year 1942-43, we report as follows: During the year the club has enjoyed guest speakers, talent programs and a yearly party and picnic. The club has also been active in school affairs, participating in the pep parade and selling candy at the basketball games.

We sincerely hope this information will be of help to you.

Very truly yours,
Commercial Club

Girls' Science

Future "Madams Curie" of E. H. S. Girls' Science Club have one thing in common. They know the meaning of such mystic formulaes as T.N.T. and H_2O. Maybe this is due to "Master Scientist" G. I. Renner, who keeps the girls working. Anyway, members are gaining helpful information for when they go out into the "Big, Wide World" to take their places in defense industries and other occupations that demand some knowledge of science.

Home Economics

"Oh, I smell something burning!" "Gee, a ripped seam!" Sooner or later you may have to say this, but not those belonging to the Home Economics Club.

But all work and no play is not good for anyone so the homemakers of tomorrow also have their fun. The main activity during the past year was the sewing of card table covers for the Red Cross and the U.S.O. Centers here and abroad.

With play and work mixed they're always in a good mood and good homemakers they'll be too for they will have no burned food nor ripped seams.

The Tipoff

Varsity Basketball

The 1942-43 varsity basketball team will go down in Elgin sport history as one of the greatest cage teams to ever represent dear old Elgin. Real competitors, the boys worked hard not only while in action, but before, as that is really when most games are won.

In the early part of the season, the squad showed only average ability, winning two of four non-conference games. However, as the season rolled along the team gained momentum and their last quarter drive and fight proved the deciding factor in a great number of games.

Few coaches have ever gone through more exciting, thrilling moments than Mentor John Krafft was forced to survive this campaign. In too many games, the fighting Maroons came from behind when things looked darkest and turned defeat into victory. The last quarter drive is a symbol of a great team, and Elgin was just that this season.

After winning the Big Eight Conference championship the local quintet captured both of their Regional and Sectional titles in the usual thrilling style. Elgin staged one of the most spectacular rallies ever witnessed by local sport fans in the Regional final with Hebron. Another thriller the boys pulled out of the fire was the Sectional final with Oak Park.

After eighteen years Elgin was finally represented at the state cage tournament at Champaign. Here, the Krafftmen met for the second time in the "43" half of the season, the strong West Rockford aggregation. Elgin came out on top with a last minute drive in the Rockford encounter, and duplicated the feat in the quarter-final game with Wood River. The Maroons never gave up in their two heart-breaking losses in the semi-final and consolation games at the state tournament.

Four seniors ended their sport activity for Elgin high at the state meet, and it will be many years before these cagers, Dave Kilburn, Bob Morton, Bob Menke, and Cliff Nelson, will be forgotten.

Frosh-Soph Basketball

An overlooked but amazing sequel to the champion varsity team was the outstanding Elgin Frosh-Soph outfit that rolled up the excellent record of 14 wins and one defeat.

The recognition that was their just due, was not offered because the Frosh-Soph competition this year was not official. The reason of course is the war and its various difficulties. Regardless of this, in Elgin at least, the boys are rated real champions.

Provided with all a coach can ask for, speed, height, and the ever essential teamwork, the three coaches who alternately directed the squad shaped a beautiful team. Coach Mike Farroh, who had the boys first, started them on their road to victory with wins over Glenbard and Hinsdale. Then came the heart rending two point loss to Morton of Cicero.

Coach Farroh went to war and number two, Coach Vern Lentz, took over. Under his tutelage the team swept on with thundering defeats over East and West Aurora, LaSalle-Peru, Joliet, and East Rockford.

Well, before we knew it, Coach Lentz went to war. The third and last coach was Orville Peterson, who directed the team to wins over West Rockford, the Aurora's, and Joliet.

Sparking the cagers in their triumphs were Bill Turner, Tom Parker, Jim Bielenberg, Bill Myers, Ralph Fowler, Paul Swenson, Cecil Edgington, Walter Graf, Russell Geldmacher, Howie Foell, and Jack Cossman.

We can say with confidence that things are looking up for next year's basketball team with these young champions entering the varsity field. They can't help but make the team.

Football

This just wasn't Elgin's year in football. For while the team was just loaded with fight, they seldom won. The final figures show that the Maroons won two games, lost six, and tied one, for seventh place. This includes two pre-season contests, one a 19 to 0 victory over Maine, and the other a 3 to 0 loss to East Rockford.

The team was something of a mystery. They could outplay almost every team in the conference, and still lose. In tough games with opponents that were supposedly stronger, the Maroon's would run all over the enemy, and then lose in the last quarter. In games with soft touches, the boys would manage to give the game away somehow. They were consistently inconsistant.

One of the nice things about this year's football team was their offense. Spectators were never bored when the Maroons had the ball. The model T formation, though confusing both to Elgin and to its opponents, worked for considerable yardage. The facts are that the boys outscored their opponents, 109 points to 87, which isn't so bad. The Joliet game, wherein the team ran up a 41 to nothing count, is an excellent example of their scoring ability.

Unlike some of the other conference teams which featured a one man offensive, Elgin was an eleven man effort all the way through. There was no one outstanding player that could be singled out for special honors. Everybody did his bit.

The backfield operated on this pattern. Quarterback Dave Kilburn did the passing and punting. Ed Weidner and Ken Bau working at the halfbacks were used considerably on end sweeps and off tackle plays. Fullback Harold Johnson made like a battering ram most of the time, going through the middle for that all important yard or two. The assistant backfield was made up of Marvin Toppel, quarterback; Bill Herrin and Dick Stolt, halfbacks; and Munson Anderson at fullback.

The line was medium sized and average in ability. The regular ends were Art Bosnyak and Lefty Funk, plus Les Dralle in a subbing capacity. At the tackles were hefty John Jacob and the equally hefty John Stolt. Reinforcements for these positions were Eric Schubert and Chuck Smith. Jim Waggoner and Wilbur Miller held the guard posts and were assisted by Ed Mellen. Don Flaherty was the regular center, and Wayne Mische his regular assistant.

Frosh-Soph Football

The Frosh-Soph football team was made up of a marvelous bunch of fellows, regular guys, everyone of 'em. So far as we know they only had one fault. They couldn't win.

They started the season out okay, winning 13 to nothing over Maine, and they ended up alright, too, with a 13 to 12 victory over West Rockford. It was in between these two games that they had all their troubles. They lost five games, which gave them complete control over the very undesirable cellar.

Following the Maine triumph, the boys were knocked off by East Rockford for a count of 15 to 0. Still groggy, the team met the champions to be, West Aurora, and lost again, 12 to 6. Next came LaSalle-Peru, and again the little Maroons were beaten, this time 12 to 0. By now it had become a habit, and so they went down in succession to East Aurora, 19 to 6, and to Freeport, 25 to 14. Throughout their conference contests, the Minors scored 39 points and their opponents counted for 95.

As the Minor's coach, Mr. Krafft had many problems, and one that comes around every year, is the shortage of experienced players. He hardly has the boys trained, and away they go, off to the Varsity ranks. This year he had only one second year man, Captain Paul Turner.

The usual starting lineup is hard to pick, because most of the time it varied. There were four ends that saw a lot of action, Tom Parker, Chuck Orban, Don Westphal, and Howie Foell. Chuck Shoop and Stanley McDonald worked together on the left tackle position, while Gene Termini and Chuck Garret took turns on the right tackle. Gerald Johnson held down the left guard and Don Strohm and Russell Geldmacher struggled for the right guard. Phil Goldenstein and Joe Ladd were the centers, regular and otherwise.

In the backfield, Paul Turner played quarterback, Gerhard Heine and Jake Downs ran from the halfbacks, and Ronald Krieger was regular fullback. Capable substitutes were: Paul Scheele, Loren Perkins, and Dick Munroe.

Wrestling

The war spoiled a lot of things this year, and in a small way it bothered the wrestling team. Never more than a baby sport in the "Big Eight," it came into its own in 1942 as a Major sport. But this year the war with its transportation difficulties, man power difficulties, equipment difficulties, and a hundred other difficulties shoved wrestling back on the minor sport shelf.

This didn't hamper competition though. While wrestling was confined to neighboring cities like Geneva, East Aurora, and LaGrange, it still brought all the usual thrills to the spectators. Elgin had five meets and won three of them. There were two matches with Geneva, finishing with an even split; two with East Aurora, both of which we took, and one contest with LaGrange which we lost. It was a satisfactory season, with average results.

Coach Adams had material which was on the whole above the average. The big three; Captain Bud Rogerts, 145 lbs., Glen McCormack, 135 lbs., and Jim Coulombe, 155 lbs., made up a large part of the team's strength. All together, they won 21 out of 28 matches.

The rest of the boys were all fair wrestlers. Paul Svendsen in the 95 lb. class had a record of four wins and two defeats; Ted Kramer, 105 lbs., won one match and dropped four; John Salisbury, 115 lbs., had one win against five defeats; James Salisbury, 125 lbs., won three and lost five; Bill Snellgrove, 165 lbs., won two and lost three; Dick Stolt, 175 lbs., had three wins and one defeat; and heavyweight Chuck Smith finished with an aven 500 average, winning three and losing three.

With most of the boys returning next year, things look pretty good for the team. War permitting, they should have a successful season.

Boys' Gym

If you took gym, and you probably did, you've heard this one, "Boys, army life is tough, plenty tough. Get ready now, and save yourself some suffering."

So the gym classes harkened to these words and did their suffering ahead of time. Toughening exercises meant to develop every muscle in the anatomy were prescribed and administered. Such things as the bear walk, push ups, situps, Burpi tests, and various stretching exercises, came into the picture and aided students in their suffering.

Hand in hand with the calisthenic program, competitive sports were practiced. One court basketball, emphasizing team work and agility, came in the early part of the year. Wrestling, boxing, and tumbling, all meant to develop self-reliance and fitness, held forth for some time. Then track, baseball, and softball took over. Tug o' wars, handball, and touch football also were part of the training, stressing footwork and balance.

The war was hard on instructors. Mr. Roggen went to the army, Mr. Farroh and Mr. Lenz, to the navy. That left Mr. Krafft. Replacements were found in a short time however, Mr. Alexander from Maywood, and Mr. Aherne from the grade school system here in Elgin. In no time at all, the physical fitness department had become adjusted and was working efficiently.

Comparing this year's gym program with those of the past is like comparing an old "flyin' machine" with a P-40 of today. Where before gym classes met twice a week, they now meet three times a week for under classmen and five times for Seniors. Classes are at least a third larger than before, and now it takes three gym instructors where it used to take only one. One thing for sure, war certainly can change things in a hurry. In this case, haste didn't make waste.

The WAAC's aren't going to get ahead of us. We, too, are helping Uncle Sam by keeping physically fit.

Our annual play days and Telegraphic Basket Shooting tournament were threatened by war restrictions, but we solved this problem in short order.

Because we enjoy dancing, we sponsored a school dance, which went over with a bang.

With all this advance training we may be able to serve our country in the very near future.

Some Pep!

Girls' Sports

The same old theme song holds true in girls athletics, just as it does in all the rest, "There's been some changes made."

In the dear dead days of old, the girls were given an informal sports program that seldom worked up a real sweat. Everything went slowly and comfortably.

Now, the program has been pepped up considerable, and the girls are "working like Trojans." A constructive physical fitness training keeps them busy both on the athletic field and in the gymnasium. This program was recommended by the Office of Civilian Defense in Chicago, and the Office of Education in Washington, D.C.

A part of the training included First Aid and home nursing. Over a hundred girls passed tests for these and received certificates. The war has practically made these subjects a must in preparing for the future. With positions in the WAVE's and WAAC's beckoning, the girls found them very helpful.

Miss Wilda Logan supervised the gym classes and was assisted by Miss Maxine Goldstein, Miss Chaland, and a student teacher from DeKalb, Miss Annie Lou Simpson. A general list of the activities of girls in sports would include: exercises, basketball, hockey, speedball, volleyball, captainball, table tennis, shuffle board, archery, badminton, and dancing. Under a program of this type, Elgin's girls not only should develop physically, but also as citizens for tomorrow.

The E Club is an organization for athletic lettermen. Their activities for this year have been to usher for all basketball games and to run the check-room. Their sponsor is Mr. Krafft. The highlight of their activities is their twice annual initiation of new members. Every spring and fall, we hear rumors of many strange doings of the club members. This is all a part of their initiation.

Track

The track team of 1942 was pretty good, and so was their record. They captured the county track title for the fourth time in five years; they won four dual meets, and they placed fifth in the Big Eight tournament.

Running down their seasonal calendar, first they met East Aurora and won 72 to 41. Then they defeated West Aurora, 83 to 30. Next, East Aurora came back for a second beating, this time to the tune of 57 to 36. In a triangular with Rockford, the Maroons came out on the bottom, with West Rockford on top with 54 points, East Rockford second with 45½ points, and Elgin with 41½. Lastly, they defeated Hinsdale, 60 to 51½.

Big men on the track team were: Bob Becker and Captain Chuck Schroeder in the half mile; Don Leuthold in the high jump and broad jump; Walter Rust and Ralph Fowler in the pole vault; Dick Stolt in the hurdles; Cliff Nelson, Steve Stepanek and Munson Anderson in the quarter mile; Morrie Whipple in the high jump and broad jump; and Willard Palmer and Waldemar Luepke in the Weights.

With most of the regulars graduating, the team of 1943 will be made up of young and inexperienced men. We lose Bob Becker, Chuck Schroeder, Morrie Whipple, Waldemar Luepke, and Willard Palmer. Boys who don't live here any more are Munson Anderson and Steve Stepanek. Coach Roggen has gone to war and Assistant Coach Morrill is now business manager. The boys will be coached by Chester Alexander.

Tennis

The tennis team of 1942 was a great one. They were undefeated in league competition, and were very decidedly champions. They won seventeen of eighteen matches, losing only to the state champion Oak Park outfit. The boys took 40 of 46 individual matches and won five of nine matches by shutouts.

Headed by Captain Chuck Lindquist, they swept over all opposition. Behind Lindquist were Roger Livesay, Dick Price, Bud Plath, Freshman Jack Cossman, Ed Boppre, junior, and Ray Strohm.

In the conference tournament at Rockford the Maroons ran away with first honors. One of the most exciting parts of the competition was the dual for the singles title between Lindquist and his teammate Livesay. Lindquist won, but not without a struggle The doubles combination of Dick Price and Ray Strohm likewise walked off with the doubles title.

Livesay was the surprise of the year. Where before he had been rated promising, but not quite ready, he fooled everyone by winning every singles match but one, which was his affair with Lindquist. Price carried on with his fine record, losing only one doubles match and doing the same thing in the singles field.

With the big three gone, the team of 1943 will have to start from scratch. Also, Coach Chet Renner has joined the army and spring sports have been cancelled in the conference for the duration. Regardless, we still have a sweet memory to hang on to till the Armistice.

Golf

Golf is a crazy game, only confirmed lunatics and millionaires play it. It takes an angel's disposition, a special type of vocabulary, and a strong back. You chase a silly little ball for about five miles, wind up right where you started, and gain nothing but a lot of sore muscles. Yet, you can't help but enjoy it.

Put five of these lunatics together and you've got a team. Elgin did that in 1942 and won the conference championship. They piled up what probably was the best record in golf that Elgin ever made.

Over the last two years, Elgin has won 16 out of 20 contests. This year, they dropped only two of 10 duals, triangulars, and quadrangulars.

Said lunatics were: Captain Art Bosynak, who had a seasonal average of 80.9; Bob Thoren, the teams mainstay with an average of 77.7; Ralph Turnquist who averaged 82.9; Herb Lehman with a consistant 84.3; Mel Atchison, Bartlett boy who averaged 84.8; and Cliff Watts with an average of 86.5.

The team of 1943 will and is having plenty of difficulties. For one thing there is no official season due to the war, then to, Mr. Winn, the coach, has gone into a defense plant, and finally, equipment is scarce.

The Seniors

The Senior Story

Four years ago, an ambitious group of students entered Elgin High School and began the four year struggle towards graduation. It wasn't long before we freshmen were participating in all school activities. Getting off to a good start, we were the first freshman class to organize. James Waggoner, president; Shirley Eberman, vice-president; Shirley Barnwell, secretary; Robert Rudolph, treasurer; and Miss Mary Peters, adviser, led us through the first year.

In our sophomore year, reinforced by 91 students from Abbott, we continued our work. The class colors, blue and beige, were chosen. Officers for that year were Richard Apple, Shirley Barnwell, Rose Walker, and Don Cheperka. That year our first class party was held.

Arthur Bosnyak headed the junior class. He was assisted by Shirley Barnwell, vice-president; Betty Bickler, secretary; and Don Cheperka, treasurer. The spring of our junior year, the Junior Class Play, "June Mad," was termed a huge success.

The senior year brings us almost to the top of the ladder. The entire year from September to June has been packed with activities for the seniors. In November we had a class party. The first part of December, the play "Seven Keys to Baldpate," was given by the Senior Class. Many seniors benefited by College Day, Career Day, and the vocational guidance lectures given.

Red and white carnations were chosen as the class flowers. Now the top of the four year ladder has been reached, but each senior is reminded as he goes on into life of our motto, "Not finished, just begun."

For once we have our photographer on the other side of the picture-taking fence. Hundreds of people pictured in this book have seen him making these calculations and watched him as he squinted through his sights. He has been faithful and hard working in his work, dropping in at Hi-Y meetings and hustling to G.A.A. get-togethers for the "flashes" in this book. Thanks, Bernie.

Individual Conferences with College Representatives

College Day

How much is tuition? Can I get a scholarship? Do you have special work in dramatics? Can I get a part-time job at this school? These were a few of the hundreds of questions asked during the six hundred conferences which took place on College Day, December 8th, when representatives of mid-western universities and colleges met prospective students in the library.

Seniors left their study halls to quiz the college people for fifteen minutes. Contrary to general belief that the war would reduce the number of interviews desired, it was found that interviews requested had actually increased this year. The representatives were busier than ever, answering questions and describing campuses.

An annual affair planned by the school and the Elgin American Association of University Women, College Day again proved its value for EHS students.

Career Day

Every student participated in Career Emphasis Day April 13, which brought dozens of speakers into our school with special information, experience, and advice in regard to choosing an occupation. Future farmers, electricians, journalists, teachers, hairdressers, engineers, scientists - - - these and many others spent the fifth period discussing their occupational choices with men and women actually working in the field.

Dr. Clifford Erickson of Northwestern University headed the day's program with an assembly address during the morning and individual conferences later in the day.

The day was planned by the school with the help of the Elgin Kiwanis club.

Special library displays had highlighted the day for a week before. Students thronged into the Goble library to obtain information as to possible vocations, to listen to their speaking voices on the telephone, and to study exhibit material. Movies were shown in the auditorium and the visual aids room to help students understand their problems and choices.

The general agreement was that Career Emphasis Day had been very valuable and that it should be repeated.

Good Luck Carole—!

Dear "Benny"

I've signed your boatarce ; but in Rockford, (ever heard of the town ?) they write letters.

How long have we known each other - too long ? I wouldn't say that ! It sure has been swell being your pal, I hope you can find it possible to say the same.

Let me give you a bit of advice - don't let the ! mean of scales get your goat - there's no future in it ! Look who's talking !

I'll switch pens now - maybe I'd better sign off now too. (??)

We can look back in future years and think of some of the things we did between 1941 and 1943 - I'm wondering what is in store for us at the present. Who knows.

Be good kid and continue your success !

Love
